The zoo vet

If you like animals you'll love Manish Pandey's job. He's a vet at Chester Zoo, the largest zoo in England, and one of the biggest in the world. In his job, Manish must look after some incredible wild animals, including spiders with broken legs and giraffes with sore throats.

On a typical day, Manish gets to work at eight o'clock, and has a meeting with the zoo hospital team before he goes to see the animals. He visits sick animals and talks to the zookeepers. He often checks an animal's eyes or teeth because that's a good way to find out if they are ill. He'll also do operations in the morning if any animals have an injury.

Manish grew up India and always wanted to be a vet. He came to England to train and worked in South Africa before he got his present job. He doesn't earn much money in his job because zoos don't make a lot of money, but he really enjoys his work. Being a vet in a zoo isn't more difficult than looking after dogs and cats but it's more interesting because you learn something new every day. All animals are different so when an animal that Manish hasn't met before gets ill he enjoys trying to discover what the problem is.

It was four o'clock in the afternoon one Friday. Charlie was walking home from school. He was very happy because it was Friday. He went through the park and then across a busy road. He was walking along the river bank when he saw a green bag on the ground. He picked it up and looked inside. There were some papers in the bag, a mobile phone and a wallet with a lot of money inside. Charlie didn't know what to do. He looked in his pockets and found his mobile phone. He phoned his father.

'Dad', said Charlie. 'I was walking home from school when I found a bag. There's some money in the bag. What should I do?'

Charlie's father was very surprised. 'Quickly take it to the police station,' he said. 'Tell the police you found the bag by the river'.

Charlie took the bag and started walking towards the police station. The police station was on the busy road near the park. He went inside. A policewoman was talking to a man. 'I lost a very important bag this morning,' the man said to the policewoman. 'I lost it somewhere near the river'.

'Excuse me,' said Charlie. 'I think this is your bag. I found it just now while I was walking along the river bank'.

The man was very happy. He gave Charlie 50 pounds for finding his bag.

A Sea of Plastic

1 It's no secret that our planet is suffering because of pollution. But did you know that there are nearly 270,000 tons of plastic floating in the world's oceans? In one part of the ocean there is so much plastic that it has even got a name; the Great Pacific Garbage Patch. What is especially worrying is that this plastic doesn't break down. It breaks up into smaller and smaller pieces, but it never disappears.

2 All this plastic is very dangerous for the creatures that make the sea their home. Sea birds and sea turtles eat things like plastic bags because they believe that they are food and die as a result. Also, the tiny pieces of plastic contain toxic chemicals and this affects the sea's food chain. Small fish eat these tiny pieces releasing the chemicals into their bodies. These chemicals then pass up the food chain eventually reaching our dinner tables.

3 Luckily there are things we can do to address the problem. First of all, if we use less plastic, we will reduce the amount of plastic rubbish that we throw away. Furthermore, every person has to take responsibility for what they do throw away. If every one recycled more of their plastic rubbish, then there would be less of it to pollute the land and sea. Finally, more people should support conservation groups who are working to clean up our polluted beaches. If everyone works together, then we can protect our oceans and marine life.
